

Nicolas Cage stars as Milton, a criminal that has escaped from hell in order to stop a barbaric cult of fanatics responsible for killing his daughter from making his infant granddaughter a ritual sacrifice. With a lean, mean plot and an abundance of car crashes, explosions and matrix-style slow-mo special effects, not to mention more of Cage's trademark cheesy one-liners, Drive Angry is pure B-film gold.

