Based on a play by David Lindsay-Abaire, Rabbit Hole follows married couple Becca (Nicole Kidman) and Howie (Aaron Eckhart) as they attempt to move forward after their young son's sudden death. Impressively directed and superbly written, this is a powerfully emotional bereavement drama with a deservedly Oscar-nominated performance from Kidman. An absorbing, sensitive film that feels painfully, and amusingly, true.